Introduction

After 20 years of publishing a portfolio of leading business magazines across different market sectors, our contacts, contributors and readers truly represent a benchmark of excellence in their respective fields. This, coupled with highly knowledgeable in-house experts, enables us to continue to exceed our customers' expectations by presenting our portfolio of world renowned events. We leverage our hard-won expertise in publishing and provide the same attention to detail and quality to our conference and event production. Beginning originally with European Railway Review, we have tested a multitude of approaches, and as we carefully grow, we build upon the success of previous events and strengthen our conferences. Through months of research and close co-operation with the key industry influencers, we are in the position of being able to roll out unrivalled conferences which unite the industry and provide networking and new business opportunities for our readers. We offer our audience of industry leaders and key decision makers the opportunity to build new contacts, share ideas, and participate in informed and impartial discussions. Our events - like our publications - are only of the highest quality: independent information from leading industry figures, set within a professional environment.

4th Annual Scandinavian Rail Development Conference

european railway review conference

Scandinavian Rail Development 2012

22-23 February • Sheraton Stockholm Hotel • Stockholm

www.europeanrailwayreview.com/srd

For the past three years, Scandinavian Rail Development has brought together the key rail industry stakeholders from across Sweden, Denmark, Norway and Finland, to share valuable insights into the ongoing development of the region's rail networks.

The global financial crisis continues to hit Europe and there is of course no doubt that the economic climate is having some impact on the rail sector.

But European governments recognise that an efficient, sustainable rail network is critical to the economic prosperity of their respective countries. And the entire industry recognises that slashing investments will only serve to cause a flight away from public transport which flies in the face of European Union policy in meeting targets for the reduction of greenhouse gas emissions.

The Nordic countries though continue to recognise the true value of continued investments into their rail networks with high-speed plans and communications & signalling advances still high on the agenda, even in these chastened economic times.

From projects including Denmark's high-speed rail line; high-speed lines planned for Norway and Sweden; the Fehmarn Link between Denmark and Germany; a total country signalling upgrade for Denmark; Sweden's Iron Ore Line and the Harapanda line upgrade, there is no doubt that Scandinavian Rail Development 2012 will be a timely and invaluable insight into the future of the Nordic Rail Network.

Presenting leading operators from the region, Scandinavian Rail Development will bring together every stakeholder in the Nordic region's high speed, liberalised network.

Whether you are looking to uncover investment and development opportunities, or you are an operator to whom dialogue with transport authorities is critical to your business, Scandinavian Rail Development is the must attend Nordic rail conference of 2012.

"The conference has a good balance between strategic presentations and more technical ones. It gave a good overview of the Scandinavian railway projects." Director, Trafikverket

"I've gained general knowledge about the development of rail in Nordic countries. The precise information by European Railway Review and organisation was excellent." Director, Transportation Consultant

Rail & Mass Transit Security USA 2012

11-12 April • Swissôtel • Chicago

www.europeanrailwayreview.com/rmts

Rail and Mass Transit Security USA 2012 is brought to you by the publishers of two of Europe's leading transport magazines; European Railway Review and Eurotransport Magazine. Using our expertise from publishing such titles, we have, for the past 5 years, exceeded our customers' expectations by producing our world renowned conferences alongside our magazines throughout Europe and beyond.

Our events are only of the highest quality: independent information from leading industry figures, set within a professional and impartial environment. We provide attendees with a unique platform for the sharing and understanding of the issues facing the sector.

Through months of research and close co-operation with the key industry influencers, coupled with our extensive experience within the sector, we are pleased to announce that we are now in a position to roll out an unrivalled programme focusing the North American transport Security sector.

It goes without saying that safety and security are top priorities for railroads, freight and passengers, for their employees, operations and the communities they serve. Since the 9/11 attack security enhancements have been front of mind at every level, but following the seizure of materials during the raid on Osama bin Laden's compound, once again there have been widespread media reports indicating al-Qaeda's interest in attacking trains. As such rail and mass transit security is of paramount importance for all parties.

Rail and Mass Transit Security USA 2012 will bring together heads of security from infrastructure owners, freight and passenger rail operators, regional transport authorities, transportation police, Government agencies and industry suppliers.

These industry leaders are coming together from all over North America to discuss the ongoing security initiatives being implemented to reduce the security threat to the nations transport networks.

Rail and Mass Transit Security USA 2012 will provide an unrivalled forum for collaboration and exchanging of information. You will benefit from hearing from senior leading industry experts who are coming together next April to share their visions, ideas, new security measures, and to discuss the most pressing issues facing the sector.

The threat of terrorist attacks will always be an issue which grabs the attention, but all transport networks rely on security at all levels to ensure a safe environment for both passenger and freight operations. From graffiti to cable theft, robbery to vandalism, trespass to terrorism, Rail and Mass Transit Security USA 2012 will cover all of the topics that keep security professionals awake at night and should be the most important event in your 2012 diary.

As the only conference designed just for transport security professionals, the speaker line up for this event is absolutely unrivalled and as a result, we anticipate a great deal of interest.

We very much look forward to welcoming you to Chicago for what promises to be an unmissable event!

Bringing Poland's rail network up to date is not without challenges. Achieving a rail network that is faster, smarter and more efficient takes expertise and Best in Class solutions in engineering and telecommunications. And rail operators and infrastructure owners must work together to best serve customer needs in these newly liberalised markets.

Following the enormous success of the inaugural Polish Rail Development conference, held in May 2010, followed by the second edition of the conference in May 2011, we are delighted to once again include Polish Rail Development in our 2012 calendar of leading industry events.

Polish Rail Development 2011 presented leading industry figures to debate a wide range of themes including ERTMS implementation; the progress of the high-speed lines; new stations and communications centres; the liberalisation of the passenger market and the relationship between infrastructure owner and rail operators in the newly liberalised freight market.

Polish Rail Development 2012 has been designed to bring together all stakeholders in Poland's railway marketplace to continue to shape the future of Poland's network. Delegates attending will listen to each of Poland's rail operators share their respective visions and investment plans for the network as well as hearing from PKP SA and PKP Polish Railway Lines.

Polish Rail Development is the only conference focusing purely on this country and I urge you to join us once again in Warsaw for what again looks set to be an invaluable industry conference.

4th Annual Iberian Rail Development Conference

European railway review conference

Iberian Rail Development 2012

23-24 May

www.europeanrailwayreview.com/ird

Following the tremendous success of the past three conferences, the 4th Annual Iberian Rail Development will be held in Madrid and will once again bring together the key stakeholders from the Spanish and Portuguese rail markets. Iberian Rail Development is the only rail conference for the region which truly delivers on its promise to offer a unique meeting place for development and business opportunities. With the past conferences attracting over 650 of the senior figures from the region, the 2012 event promises to continue to cement this conference as a must attend for the Iberian rail marketplace.

"The conference was an excellent opportunity to all stakeholders involved in the Iberian Peninsula railway business to network and exchange good practices. I liked the general quality of the presentations, which allowed a clear view of the railway reality in Portugal and Spain."

Rogério Antunes, International Affairs, REFER - EPE (Portugal)

"There was some important new information, essentially about Iberian railways connections, which is so important for the development of Porto de Sines. The organisation and the quality of the interventions was good."

3rd Annual German Rail Development Conference

european railway review conference GERMAN RAIL DEVELOPMENT 2012

13-14 June • Meliá Berlin • Berlin • Germany

www.europeanrailwayreview.com/grd

Germany's rail market is the largest in Europe and one of the most developed in the world. However, as with most networks, there is always the need for continued development of new lines and improvements. In Germany, the issue of practical liberalisation is key.

German Rail Development will bring together the leading figures throughout Germany and the bordering countries to discuss and share experience and opinion of the current and future state of the rail networks.

By focusing on specific projects in terms of both corridor and regional lines, light rail and suburban, the conference will provide an insight into investment plans and areas such as upgrades and construction, signalling and rolling stock, passenger and freight opportunities, assisting all stakeholders in their quest for greater levels of efficiency and service. This two day conference will bring together all parties including infrastructure owners/managers, operators, maintenance companies, consultants and suppliers.

We look forward to welcoming you to Berlin!

2nd Annual Conference

European railway review & eurotransport conference

Rail & Public Transport Safety & Security 2012

24-25 October • London

www.europeanrailwayreview.com/rptss

Safeguarding passengers and assets is of paramount importance to all public transport stakeholders. Aside from the devastating consequences that we know only too well can arise from security breaches; delay, disruption and the perception of unsafe networks cause flight from rail and public transport networks and consequently have a negative impact on the bottom line.

Security and safety issues are increasingly important to all transport operators. And yet in this increasingly challenging economic climate, how do you continue to deliver safe and efficient networks? How do you convince the public that your networks remain safe against a backdrop of cost cutting? And how do you communicate that public message cost effectively?

Operators are increasingly having to prove their security and safety credentials when tendering for contracts to operate routes and this, combined with the ongoing need to deliver networks that are both safe and publicly perceived as safe, means that security is no longer a siloed issue but one that needs to sit at the heart of board room debate.

How though do you communicate the pivotal importance of safety and security to the rest of your organisation? With an unrivalled 2011 speaker line up, Rail and Public Transport Safety and Security 2012 will once again bring together leading stakeholders in rail and public transport security who are coming together to work through how best to safeguard passengers and infrastructure against threats to their safety and security.

The programme is built to address all of the safety and security issues specifically of interest to you, and showcases the efficient delivery of Best in Class safety and security projects. Whether you need to remain aware of cutting edge safety & security advances; learn how to elevate security to the board room or examine specific safety issues and how best to address them, Rail and Public Transport Safety and Security is the must attend conference in the safety and security arena in 2012.

4th Annual Aviation Crisis Management Conference

international airport review conference

AVIATION CRISIS MANAGEMENT 2012

21-22 November

www.internationalairportreview.com/acm

Averting crises is a 24/7 function, but what is imperative is the swift resolution and return to normality in the event of a crisis. Aviation Crisis Management – an International Airport Review conference, brings together senior figures from airports, airlines, transport authorities, government, associations, suppliers and academia working within the aviation sector to discuss these very issues. Attendees have the opportunity to hear case studies from those who have been on the front line during crises. From emergency first response to disaster recovery, contingency planning to communicating with the media and passengers, Aviation Crisis Management offers a unique meeting place for the world's leading crisis management experts.

3rd Annual Conference

SCANDINAVIAN URBAN TRANSPORT 2012

28-29 November • Stockholm

www.eurotransportmagazine.com/sut

Developed following the tremendous success of our Scandinavian Rail Development conference, we are delighted to present Scandinavian Urban Transport 2012.

Governments are increasingly urging passengers to use public transport. But in order to get people off the roads they must offer a fully integrated transport network. Scandinavian Urban Transport will discuss this integration and debate what is being done to provide the major cities throughout the Nordic countries with an efficient and user friendly service. From buses to trams, light rail to metro, the expansion of every city network is key to providing a greener environment, reduced congestion and ultimately deliver what the passengers demand.

This conference is therefore designed to bring together the key stakeholders from across the major cities in Sweden, Denmark, Norway and Finland to discuss the importance of urban transport and to share opinions as to the future development plans for the major cities. Covering all modes of urban transport, including metro, trams, buses and light rail, the programme comprises representatives from transport authorities, operators, infrastructure owners and vehicle manufacturers.

This is a must attend event for any company wishing to access information on current and future urban transport projects in the Nordic region.
